READ FEEDBACK FROM YOUR PEERS

“It was clear that Anne [Gale trainer, Academic Outreach & Engagement] had spent a lot of time reviewing all our Gale resources prior to the training. She did a great job giving us a high-level overview of everything we have access to and how they are (and aren't) connected. The databases that she chose to demonstrate in closer detail were a perfect representation to show us how to make the most out of the available features in the different types of products. In particular, I hadn't realized there was a reverse color option which can be very helpful when looking at primary sources. There was a lot of information to cover in our hour session and Anne did a great job not overwhelming us and keeping to the scheduled meeting time. All the meeting attendees will be more proficient at helping our patrons use these resources which is great.”

—Samantha Martin, Instructional Technology Librarian, Washington & Jefferson College

“As a digital humanities librarian, I can confidently say that the Gale team's support in providing tailored trainings for our institution has been exceptional. They understood our needs, collaborated closely with us, and offered trainings tailored to both students/researchers as well as instructors looking to teach with the platform. The engaging sessions, flexible scheduling, and ongoing support have allowed us to integrate the Gale Digital Scholar Lab into our digital scholarship program seamlessly. I wholeheartedly recommend the Gale Digital Scholar Lab to any academic institution seeking to enhance research and scholarship through digital humanities exploration. Their support has been invaluable to our success.”

—Molly Castro, Digital Humanities Librarian, Florida International University

“The representatives on Gale's Academic Engagement & Outreach team went to outstanding lengths to support our recent database assessment project, making short work of our efforts to assess diversity, equity, and inclusion in our holdings. They produced an easily comprehensible report that applied a detailed and sensitive interpretation of our needs, which helped alleviate the assessment workload for our department. Their extensive support and continual follow-up has built a positive partnership that I look forward to continuing.”

—Megan Goldfarb, Collections, Discovery and Budget, Collection Analysis and Investment, Virginia Commonwealth University
