This chronology contains a brief overview of some of the major events in the history of world literature. This includes the development of technologies and tools that advanced the writing and publishing process, as well as some significant historical events that had an impact on the development of literature.

2100 BCE–499 CE

c. 2100 BCE
The earliest existing fragments of the Epic of Gilgamesh, widely recognized as the first epic documented in written form, are recorded on clay tablets by ancient Sumerians.

c. 1600 BCE
The first known example of a literary story documented on papyrus, a durable paper-like material made from the fibrous stem of the papyrus plant, is written by ancient Egyptians.

c. 1050 BCE
The Phoenician alphabet, the first widely used alphabetic writing system in the world, is developed from older scripts that included Egyptian hieroglyphics.

c. 850 BCE
Homer, credited as the author of the first ancient Greek epics in written form, the Iliad and Odyssey, is believed to have lived.

472 BCE
Aeschylus’s play The Persians, the oldest surviving example of an ancient Greek tragedy, was first performed.

425 BCE
The Acharnians, a play by Aristophanes and the oldest surviving example of ancient Greek comedy, is first performed.

190 BCE
The production of parchment, a writing surface derived from animal skin, is refined into an easily produced method in the ancient Greek city of Pergamum, effectively ending the dominance of papyrus.

300 BCE
Kālidāsa, Indian playwright and one of the foremost literary figures of the Sanskrit language, is believed to have lived.

397 CE
Augustine of Hippo, a North African bishop, begins publication of his Confessions, generally regarded as the first autobiography and the first example of confessional literature.

500–1499

c. 794
The first paper mill begins operation in Baghdad, in modern-day Iraq. Over the course of several centuries, wood pulp-based paper replaces parchment as the dominant writing surface throughout the world.

868
The Diamond Sutra is published in China; printed using woodblock printing methods, this publication is the oldest known printed book in existence.

1021
The Tale of Genji, a Japanese work attributed to Murasaki Shikibu, is published. The work becomes a landmark in Japanese literature.
Omar Khayyam, a Persian mathematician and poet, is born. His poetic works are later collected—along with some works of suspect attribution—in The Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, a key work of Persian literature.

c. 1220 Snorri Sturluson creates the first comprehensive written collection of Norse mythology with the completion of the Prose Edda.

1265 Italian poet Dante Alighieri, creator of the epic known as The Divine Comedy, is born.

1439 German metalworker Johann Gutenberg creates the first functional printing press, resulting in the ability to mass-produce copies of literature easily and cheaply instead of by hand.

1500–Today

1558 Queen Elizabeth I assumes the throne of England, marking the beginning of the Elizabethan Age, a period of forty-five years during which significant advancements in English poetry and drama occurred.

1564 William Shakespeare, generally acknowledged by modern readers as the greatest dramatist in the history of the English language, is born.

1605 The first volume of Don Quixote by Miguel de Cervantes is published. Written in Spanish, Don Quixote is widely considered to be the first modern novel.

1649 The Puritan-led British Commonwealth Parliament, in control after the overthrow of the British monarchy, bans theatrical productions throughout England due to the purported indecency of dramatic works. The ban would last until 1680, and would be followed by an explosion of theatrical development during the period known as the Restoration.

1719 The Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robinson Crusoe by Daniel Defoe is published; this book is often regarded as the first true novel of the English language.

1798 Lyrical Ballads, with a Few Other Poems, a poetic collection by William Wordsworth and Samuel Taylor Coleridge, is published, marking for many the beginning of the Romantic movement in English literature.

1800–Today

1856 Gustave Flaubert’s novel Madame Bovary is published in serial form, leading to an obscenity trial over its contents. Madame Bovary is considered by many to be the key work that launched the Realism movement in literature.

1857 Novelist Charles Dickens founds All the Year Round, one of many inexpensive British serial magazines that make literature available to virtually all levels of social class; All the Year Round subsequently features the first publication of the Dickens novels Great Expectations and A Tale of Two Cities.

1873 Production begins on the first commercially successful typewriter by E. Remington and Sons, which will allow writers to produce work substantially more quickly and more neatly than writing by hand.

1922 James Joyce’s novel Ulysses and T. S. Eliot’s poem “The Waste Land” are both published, defining for many the Modernist literary movement.

1924 André Breton publishes his Surrealist Manifesto, launching an avant-garde literary and artistic movement characterized by a celebration of the irrational.

1932 Joseph Stalin, dictatorial leader of the Soviet Union, decrees that socialist realism—an artistic style in which the working class and government leaders are praised—is the only government-approved art style. Writers and artists who create controversial works are censored and placed into labor camps; a secret distribution system known as samizdat is created to preserve and share censored works among dissenting intellectuals.

1950 Eugène Ionesco’s play The Bald Soprano debuts in Paris, launching the theatrical movement known as Theater of the Absurd.

1992 The World Wide Web, an interlinking structure designed by Tim Berners-Lee for viewing cross-referenced multimedia documents from any location through data transfer, is officially released.
