

Associations Unlimited

Connect with more than 440,000 organizations

For more than 40 years, the Encyclopedia of Associations series has been the premier source for information on associations and professional societies.

For Internet and CD-ROM platforms, Associations Unlimited combines data from the entire Encyclopedia of Associations series (National, International and Regional, State and Local) and includes additional IRS information on nonprofit organizations, for a total of approximately 444,000 organizations. The database also contains materials — brochures, logos and membership applications — for 2,600 of the most frequently contacted national organizations.

A variety of applications

Public and academic librarians, library users, business people and staff at nonprofit associations will use this database to:

- Locate national, international and local associations
- Monitor association trends
- Locate related associations
- Market to associations, their members and markets
- Network and make professional contacts

Benefits

Perhaps the greatest benefit of Associations Unlimited is its convenient modular format, allowing you to pay only for the modules you need. In addition, researchers will appreciate the following benefits:

- Fast, easy searching even of complex search strategies
- Search multiple data fields and modules simultaneously
- Entries can be viewed, printed or saved in the format you require — full, brief or labels (CD-ROM only)
- Automatic data updates
