

History Behind the Headlines, volume 1
(pub. 2001)
Table of Contents

The Afghan Taliban: Emerging Government or Civil Rights Tragedy?

The Taliban has been accused of denying basic human rights and supporting and harboring terrorists.

(Amazon) Deforestation of the Amazon: Economics and Biodiversity

The Brazilian government, Brazilian companies, and multinational organizations are developing the Amazon, potentially threatening the environmental health of Earth, the Amazon's long-term economic vitality, and the indigenous people.

Bosnia-Herzegovina: Civil War

The Republic of Yugoslavia deteriorated into nationalist and ethnic warfare following the break-up of the Soviet Union.

Brazil: Racism and Equality

Racial conflict emerged in Brazil, a country that prides itself on being free from racism.

Chechnya and Russia: A War of Succession

Chechnya's declaration of independence has caused a lengthy and bloody war as Russia attempted to prevent Chechnya from seceding.

The Chiapas Rebellion: Indigenous People's Rights in Mexico

The indigenous people of Chiapas' fight for self-determination in Mexico.

Colombian Drug Wars: Guerrillas, Paramilitary Groups, and the Government

The lucrative drug trade puts the drug organizations, the government, and paramilitary groups in conflict.

(Congo-Kinshasa) The Democratic Republic of Congo: The African World War

Ethnic and civil warfare in Congo has involved many of the Congo's neighboring countries.

Cuba and the United States: Revolution, Nationalism, and Enemies Next Door

Castro's communist Cuba and the United States continue a cold war through political maneuverings and economic embargoes.

Ethiopia and Eritrea: Border War

Disagreement over a small piece of land causes a long and bloody war.

The Gaza Strip and West Bank: Statehood and Security

Captured by Israel during the 1967 Six-Day War, the Gaza Strip and West Bank are the territories of the promised Palestinian state.

German Right Wing Extremism: Anti-Foreigner Violence in the Country of the Holocaust

Increases in right wing violence in Germany--primarily against foreigners--cause tension within Germany and suspicion outside of the country.

Humanitarian Aid: Compassion and Controversy

Lauded for reducing pain and suffering, humanitarian organizations have also been charged with prolonging war and fermenting dissent.

Iraq: Economic Sanctions

Economic sanctions levied following the Gulf War have a devastating impact on Iraqis while there is little evidence of their success against the Iraqi government.

Kashmir: War in the Himalayas

Kashmiris, Indians, and Pakistanis fight over Kashmir's proposed independence.

The Kurds in Turkey: The Capture of Ocalan

The Kurds, a minority in Turkey, fight an occasionally violent war for independence.

Liberia in Civil War: Have for Freed Slaves Reduced to Anarchy

A long and brutal civil war in Liberia has led to the virtual destruction of the country.

Nagorno-Karabakh: Self-Determination and Ethnic Identification

Ethnic and religious differences spur Nagorno-Karabakh's war of independence from Azerbaijan.

Oil: Protectionist Pricing and Fuel Dependence

High oil prices lead to charges that oil-producing countries are gouging Western nations, which are greatly dependent on oil.

(Pinochet) The Extradition of Chilean General Augusto Pinochet: Justice Delayed?

Spain's attempted extradition of Pinochet from England in 1999 raised, again, the image of the brutal murders and torture that took place during Pinochet's reign in Chile.

Roma in Eastern Europe: The Wall in the Czech Republic

Long-standing prejudice and discrimination endures against Roma (Gypsies) in Eastern Europe.

Rwanda and Burundi: Culture, History, Power, and Genocide

The massacre of 500,000 to one million Tutsis during a brief period in 1994 aroused international attention and concern.

Serbia and NATO: The 1999 War

During 1999 NATO conducted an extensive bombing campaign against the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro).

The Soviet Union: Collapse of the USSR and Formation of Independent Republics

In the early 1990s the Soviet Union disintegrated, leading to nationalist and ethnic warfare in some of the former republics.

Sudan: Slavery and Civil War

The continuing civil war in Sudan has led to the re-emergence of slavery.

Syria and Israel: Negotiations for Peace

Frequently warring Syria and Israel may be slowly moving toward peace.

Taiwan and China: Unification and Nationalism

China, which has not ruled Taiwan for more than one hundred years, except briefly after World War II, wants the power to rule again.

U.S. Militant Separatist Movements: Freedom Fighters or Terrorists?

Militia movements in the United States have clashed frequently with federal and local law enforcement.

Venezuela: New Military Populism

Venezuela, historically a model Latin American democracy, has elected a populist from the military.

The World Trade Organization: The Battle in Seattle

Opposition to globalization and increased world trade has led to occasionally violent protests.